

Notification Service Disclaimer

Information updates provided through the Delaware Notification Service are provided for the convenience of the user. While every effort is made to ensure that such information is delivered in a timely fashion, factors outside the control of the State of Delaware may, from time to time, hinder the efficient and effective delivery of such updates.

A number of factors may contribute to a delay or failure in delivery of information updates including, but not limited to, the following:

- Problems or issues with the telecommunications infrastructure on which such notifications travel.
- Problems with the service provided by your local Internet Service Provider (ISP).
- Problems or issues with the local area network through which your computer may be connected to the Internet.
- Heavy Internet usage volumes.
- Internet filtering software that may block emails to or from certain recipients.
- Restrictions and rules applied by your local Internet Service Provider on your email account.

Neither the State of Delaware nor any State entities that supply information through this notification service, nor any of their employees make any warranty or assume any legal liability or responsibility for the timely delivery of information updates through this service.

If you experience difficulty receiving email messages through this service, please contact the Delaware Government Information Center.